Justice Lambert Directs Jury to Find Their Verdict for "This Man Mc-Clellan, or Whatever His Name Is."

After long and labored argument by Clarence J. Shearn and Charles A. Dolson in insisting upon the throwing out of the entire vote of 112 election districts because of alleged excess or shortage of ballots in the boxes, with brief, sententious argument in opposition to the disfranchisement of 60,000 voters, who concededly had done no wrong, Justice Lambert to-day directed the jury in the Hearst-McClellan recount suit to find a verdict in favor of McClellan.

Justice Lambert said:

"It is not necessary for me to explain to you the reasoning by which I have reached my decision in this matter.

"It must appear plain to you, as it does to me, that the accuracy of the original count of the votes was quite as correct as we have reached in this proceeding.
